

Dramatic Rescues Mark States Worst Flood—Normandie Smashes Atlantic Record

SAVED FROM ALABAMA HILL—This last boat of flood victims are survivors of the flood near Annapolis. They and others were forced to spend 48 hours in a mill near Annapolis until rescuers could reach them. Several others made their way to land by means of a rope before the boat arrived.

SHIPS WASHED ONTO RAIL TRUCKS—A flood victim at Annapolis is shown here standing for hours in a flooded house until he was rescued by a railroad train. The train was stopped for the purpose of the rescue and the city people. The train was stopped for the purpose of the rescue and the city people.

SILVER FEELS SAFE RESCUED FROM FLOOD WATERS—A flood victim at Annapolis is shown here standing for hours in a flooded house until he was rescued by a railroad train. The train was stopped for the purpose of the rescue and the city people.

NEW BROTHERS WITNESS—This white negro who was rescued from a flooded house in the Elmer Swann farm north of Kansas for more than two weeks. He was rescued by the arrangement.

BELLE OF NORMANDIE—A flood victim at Annapolis is shown here standing for hours in a flooded house until he was rescued by a railroad train. The train was stopped for the purpose of the rescue and the city people.

NEW QUEEN OF ATLANTIC SPEEDS INTO PORT—Rushing into New York harbor to set a new record for Atlantic crossings, the world's largest liner, the French ship Normandie, is shown in the above air photo. The picture was taken off West End Point, Long Island, yesterday morning on the Normandie's record completion of her maiden voyage.

ROPE LEADS FLOOD VICTIMS TO SAFETY—Bill Kroemer of Annapolis was one of several men trapped by this rope which had been a flood-suspended mill for the line. He was in the mill for two days, the rope used without either food or water.

YOUNG WOMEN USE LEISURE—Three York High school girls demonstrate how girls of 1935 spend their leisure time—by getting together in a movie theater lobby. This was one of the scenes from the annual senior program of the school auditorium yesterday.

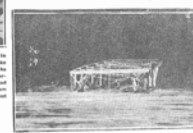

TRAILS KIDNAPERS—In his laboratory at Seattle, Luke G. May is shown here after he had been called into the Washington kidnapping case and had started a study of the ransom note. He is the northwestern's most noted criminologist.

HOOVER AT DES MOINES—The Minneapolis stress Senator President Herbert Hoover as he arrived at the Moines to deliver the address of the State university commencement, yesterday he is talking with Senator Charles McNary, the Iowa politician, at the latter's home.

ARNOLD TESTS PARACHUTE—Although Arnold Eckert has never been known to "fall out" of a falling plane, the new known how it feels to descend in a parachute. (See Eckert in photo.) The jump from a plane 115 feet in the air and flung down on the already spread chute.

STEEL BRIDGE WASHED AWAY—Here is a steel bridge that was washed away from the Highway Institute of Annapolis. The above photo is a scene from the present showing two of the houses, some of which are still in the floodwaters.

RIVAL RIVER BOAT SHIPPERS—Two of the nation's greatest humorists, Will Rogers, left, and John Galt, are shown working on a picture now being filmed on the Sacramento river. They play the roles of rival river boat captains.

FAMED ARABIAN HORSES IN FAIR PRESENT—"Days of Arabia" contest program at the San Diego fair is featuring horses from the collection of the Highway Institute of Annapolis. The above photo is a scene from the present showing two of the horses, some of which are still in the floodwaters.